HONGKONG, TUESDAY, MAY 28, 1889. THE Governor took the wind out of the sails of the unofficial members yesterday by have the very opposite effect, did not drop the Bill, his depreciation of the value of the measure at once. For, after all, the incidental improvements, -mainly relating tomatters of procedure, -of which the Acting Attorney General made so much, are not of great value; and we are satisfied that, had the Gevernor foreseen that these changes of form would be all that he would obtain, he would never have undertaken such a difficult task as the amendment of the extradition laws. The new Bill gives us a list of crimes and offences for which rendition may be obtained; but, ever since the Kwok Asing case, no one has sought to China and that there is probable cause for maintain that we can hand over ori- believing that the said person has committed minals for other than such crimes as are such crimes or offence, it shall &o; and recognised to be extradition crimes by civi. again the Magistrate has to investigate the lised nations. And lastly, if a prisoner is not surrendered and conveyed out of the Colony within two months after he has been committed, a judge of the Supreme Court may order his discharge unless sufficient cause is shown to the contrary. This, we suppose, is intended to meet the case where the Government, after a fugitive has been com-When the body is in a heated or feverish mitted, has asked for further particulars from the Chinese authorities and has

The Ordinance sets forth in the preamble that, whereas by the Treaty of Tientsin fugitive criminals are to be rendited on proof of their guilt, and whereas &c. &c., be it enacted &c. Then clauses 10 and 11 run as follows:--

10. But, from he discovered that his mutilated Bill would the tenor of the Governor's first speech on cross-examination, and his statement that we might as well give prisoners up on documents as on evidence, we are persuaded that a quite different interpretation is put on the clauses by the Government. Clauses 10 and 11 are to some extent a re-enactment of the provisions of the old ordinance, but there are material differences. In the 1850 Act the words occur (the italics are our own)- 'If at the close of the investigation it shall appear to the Magistrate or Court that such person as aforesaid is a subject of

Between such dismetrically opposite principles of conduct there can be no compromise. If China will not come to us, willnot conform to what we consider the requirements of justice, the honour and good name of Britain forbid us to yield to China. If, as the Governor says, the Police know that there are 400 men in the Colony who are openly living a dishonest life, living on depredations made on the mainland, why does not the Government banish a few of these gentlemen? There can be little injustice in telling such gentry that their presence is not desired, and full power is given to the Governor to do this by Ordinance 8 of 1882. The power of banishing aliens is arbitrary and not altogether in consonance with British liberty, but if care is taken that only a trustworthy police officer is allowed to report on such cases, the Executive may be fairly entrusted with the power of clearing out. worthless rogues who find Hongkong a City of Refuge to which they may retire after pillaging in the mainland. To say the least for it, this mode of procedure is the least of two evils, and, we believe, is the only practicable course. At the same time we believe there is not nearly so much cause for outery as the Governor supposes. We doubt very much if the numbe of fugitives from justice is anything like covered which changes colour and develops in the same manner, and have the same 400. In that number there is doubtless included salt smugglers and political refugees, whom we believe, as Mr Keswick said, China is more anxious to get a grip of than deep-dyed criminals. Such a host of vagabonds could not live here without practising their arts in this Colony, and statistics show that crime is not increasing here. We therefore can see no danger in the failure of the Governor's attempt to make extradition easy, and if there does arise a danger from the existence of fugitive Chinese criminals, we think the remedy will be found in a judicious application of the order of the Governor but otherwise shall Banishment Ordinance and not in accepting the Chinese system of trial.

. The Acting Attorney-General-The Government cannot accede to the proposa that has been made, for several reasons. The present Bill is a great improvement on the law as it at present stands, as expressed in Ordinance 2 of 1850. It was made vided that persons who had 'committed crimes and offences' in China were to be given up. Then came the Treaty of Tientsin, which left the matter still more vague because 2 u had no description of crimes and offences, but were simply told you had to give up 'criminals.' Then, again, there was another difficulty. Under the Treaty of Tientsin you had to give them up, or place them at the disposal of the Governor. on 'proof of guilt.' Two great obstacles to carrying out the proposed scheme met me at the offset; one was the hopelessness of attempting to obtain dissections on the dead body, and the other the difficulty of obtaining pupils possessed of the necessary preliminary acquaintance with a foreign language. After much consideration, however, I began in 1879 to teach my dispenser, (an intelligent native) English, and applied to various private friends for the means to overcome the anatomical trouble. The second request, that H. E. would enable us to establish an experimental Army Hospital Company, to be under the command of the students, when qualified as surgeons, and to be submitted in the following year for H. E's inspection and approval, was cheerfully granted by the Vicercy, who immediately wrote a despatch to H. E. Liu Ming-Chuan, the Governor of Formose, saking the latter to furnish the required number of men for instruction as ther assist in securing this, he gave me an autograph despatch to the Imperial Commissioner Lin. also resident at Tamaui. requesting his co-operation in carrying out the object desired.

I duly delivered both these despatches but circumstances and the exigencies of service in this island at that time prevented compliance with the Viceregal request, and consequently other measures, to be described further on, had to be adopted for fulfilling the desideratum.

The third request, as to increasing the capacity of the school and adding to the number of the pupils, notwithstanding that H. E. seemed very ready to acquiesce in this also was, after consideration and discussion. postponed, at my suggestion, until those plishments, conclusively proved the feasibility of the propositions submitted.

THE CHINA REVIEW UBLISHED BI-MONTHLY TENTH YEAR

THIS Review, which was intended to meet the wants of many students of Chinese caused by the discontinuance of Notes and Queries on China and Japany has reached its Fourteenth Volume. The Review discusses those topics which are uppermost in the minds of students of the 'Far East' and about which every intelligent person conneotod with China or Japan is desirous of acquiring trustworthy information. It includes many interesting Notes and original Papers on the Arts, Sciences, Ethnology, Folklore, Geography, History, Literature, Mythology, Natural History, Antiquities, and Social Manners and Customs, etc., etc., of China, Japan, Mongolia, Tibet, and the Far East generally? Recently a new departure has been taken, and the Review now gives papers on Trade, Commerce, and Descriptive notes of Travel by well-known Trubner's Oriental Record contains the following notice of the China Review:-The present jublication, judging by the number now before us, is intended to occupy a position, as regards China and the neighbouring countries, some what similar to that which has been filled in India by the Calcutta Review. The great degree of attention that has been bestowed of late years upon the investigation of Chinese literature, antiquities, and social developments, to say nothing of linguistic studies, has led to the accumulation of important stores of information, rendering some such channel of publicity as is now provided extremely desirable; and contributions of much interest may fairly be looked or from the members of the foreign consular services, the Chinese Customs' corps, and the missionary body, mnong whom a high degree of Chinese scholarship is now assiduously cultivated, and who are severally represented in the first. number of the Review by papers highly creditable to their respective authors Some translations from Chinese novels and plays are marked by both accuracy and freshness of style; and an account of the career of the Chinese poet-statesman of the eleventh century, Su Tung-p'o, by Mr. E. C. Bowra, is not bnly historically valuable, but is also distinguished by its literary grace.
